Recycling Hive

Thank you for agreeing to test Recycling Hive. Please find full instructions for testing below.

Please note that any data that you provide during testing will be carried through into the LIVE site, unless you request otherwise.

What data will be visible and to whom?
*Data that is visible to me or to current/future members of the Hive will also be visible to the assessors at Code Institute who will be marking my project

Registration
Username: Visible to all current/future members of your Hive
Email: Visible to Queen Bee(s) – including me*
Password: Encrypted and not visible to anyone – not even me
Security question: Visible to Queen Bee(s) – including me*
Marketing question: Visible to Queen Bee(s) – including me*
Your postcode: Visible to Queen Bee(s) – including me*

Adding a collection
All data provided when adding a new collection will be visible to registered members of the Recycling Hive.

Further notes on data

Collection data added to the Marlborough Hive will be retained and used for the Demo version of the site, and therefore will be visible to anyone who visits the site (not just registered members). Therefore, it is suggested that you use made-up details for your personal address when adding new collections and do not use your full name when registering.

Collection data added to the Newbury & Thatcham Hive will only be visible to current/future members of the Newbury & Thatcham Hive.* Therefore, it is not necessary to use made-up details, and any data that you do add should be for real collections. Or, if using made-up data for testing purposes, please request that it be removed once testing is complete.

Accessing the site
The site can be accessed by following this address:
http://www.recyclinghive.co.uk/

Please feedback your thoughts/comments on the following areas:

Look of the site – Is it visually appealing? Is there anything that jars or looks unpleasant?

Site content – Did all the instructions and content make sense? Were there any errors/typos, and if so, where?

Functionality of the site – Was it easy to use? Was it obvious how to get to where you needed to go?

Recycling Hive – Do you think this would be useful to you/others? Does the site do what it's supposed to (i.e. help people find what they can recycle and where)?

General feedback – Anything not covered above that you'd like to let me know ☺

And finally, just a huge thank you again for taking the time to test the site for me. This is in part a project for my Software Development course with Code Institute. But, the site itself is something I feel very passionate about, and I'm hopeful that it could potentially help lots of people save lots of waste from landfill! So your help is truly appreciated.
